Debt market

- Government bonds slumped for a second straight day, with the benchmark note touching a new low, after crude oil prices rose to a more-than-two-year high, sparking concerns that inflation may accelerate in coming months.
- The Gol benchmark 6.79% 2027 bond yield rose to 6.93% from 6.89% in the previous session
- Yield on the US 10-year benchmark bond yield declined to 2.31% from 2.32% in the previous session

Forex (US$/INR)

- The rupee fell to a near-two-week low against the US$, as domestic equities tumbled amid rising crude oil prices, offsetting any gains tracking an overnight weakness in the US$ index
- The US$ posted mild gains against major currencies as the US President restarted talks over North Korea in his Asia tour. Japanese Yen to remain in focus as geopolitics take centre stage during the US President's Asia tour. Euro remains anchored near its crucial supports of 1.15-1.16 zone. Recent steep rise in crude oil prices could see pressure on emerging market currencies over rising risk to fiscal balances

Equity

- Equity benchmarks lost nearly 1% on Tuesday as a surge in global crude prices to 26 month highs, weakness in the rupee and sharp plunge in pharma stocks weighed on sentiments
- Broader markets were also subject to profit booking as BSE midcap, small cap indices fell 1.47% and 1.35%, respectively

Commodities Market

- Gold fell mildly as the US$ index continues to rise swiftly against major as well as emerging market currencies. Geopolitical talks over North Korea may remain in focus for cue in non-interest paying asset
- Crude oil witnessed mild profit booking from its recent sharp surge over a host of factors including recent upheaval seen in Saudi Arabia. Oil may take cues from US government data expected today

Strategy

- In the currency futures market, the near month dollar-rupee November contract on the NSE ended at 65.20. The November contract open interest declined 0.43% from the previous day
- December contract open interest rose 1.43% in the previous session
- We expect the US$ to find supports at lower levels. Utilise downside in the pair to go long on the US$INR
